Digital solutions for cancer care in Wales

In conversation with
Jonathan Gregory and Helen Northmore

Join us as we explore digital solutions for cancer – some on the market now, and some exciting platforms under development. Which might be helpful in Wales, and why?

We're hosting Dr. Jonathan Gregory and Helen Northmore for a discussion of digital health, and how it is impacting and improving cancer care.

Find Jonathan's report on digital cancer opportunities for Moondance here. We think there are some exciting solutions here with potential to make a real difference for Welsh patients and clinicians. See what you think – and join us to discuss them!

Who should attend? Anyone working in digital health or cancer pathways in Wales.

When & where? 5.30–6.30pm, Tuesday 12th July, with time for Q&A

You can sign up here.

Jonathan is a former consultant cancer surgeon and regional MDT lead, and now freelances to bridge the gap between digital innovation and medicine, with teams from Imperial College London to the AHSN.

Helen is part of the TEC Cymru team, supporting the scale up and adoption of technology enabled care, and has experience of implementing digital solutions in Wales, having led Digital Health Ecosystem Wales.
